

AIR BOARD LAUNCHES INVESTIGATION

CHARGES CAUSE ARMY FUROR

'DEVIL'S GOT ME' SAYS SLAYER OF GIRL

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 18.—"I guess the devil's got a bill of sale on me," says James S. Henry, aged 37, a negro, who confessed he robbed, criminally assaulted and killed fourteen-year-old Edna Boswell, a white school girl, who was found dying in a country lane near Addyston, O., late Wednesday.

"Yes sir," Henry repeated Friday. "The old Nick's done got a strangle hold on me. I don't know why I done it. All I wanted at first was money, then I decided to attack her, and after that when he said she would tell on me, I smashed her head in with a big rock."

The negro was rushed to the Hamilton County jail at Cincinnati to prevent a mob from lynching him. While the officers were walking him to an automobile, he broke loose and jumped into a pond. Several shots were fired but he was not recaptured until a half hour later.

Henry said he stopped the girl once before and made her give him a dollar. She was on her way to the grocery Wednesday to buy provisions for dinner when he accosted her again. After the attack the slayer took the five dollar bill from the purse and lost it in a card game.

County Prosecutor Charles S. Bell announced he will ask the grand jury to indict Henry as soon as possible.

EX-QUARTERMASTER GENERAL LAUNCHES FIGHT ON SUCCESSOR

General Rogers, Retired
Says General Hart Was Conspirator

Washington, Sept. 18.—A social sensation unique in American army annals broke here today and caused a furore in military and naval circles.

Major General Harry L. Rogers, former quartermaster general of the army, who has a distinguished record, has preferred charges against his successor, Major General William H. Hart and formally requested that he be investigated by the war department.

General Rogers charges that General Hart, while a colonel in his department in 1922 "maliciously and disloyally" conspired to prevent his reappointment as quartermaster general and plotted to obtain his own (Hart's) advancement to the post.

During the conduct of this conspiracy, according to General Rogers' accusations, General Hart instigated a series of articles bearing on the divorce proceedings then in progress between General Rogers and his wife, General Hart is accused of furnishing to Mrs. Theresa Howard Dean, a feature writer, material out of which she fashioned a number of articles complimentary to General Rogers by comparing his divorce case to the notorious Stillman case.

Some of these articles were quite freely circulated around congress at a time when General Rogers' reappointment was up for confirmation by the senate.

Subsequently, Major General Rogers was retired from the army and Hart was chosen as his successor.

Among the many charges contained in the papers is one that Colonel Hart was "unusually gracious" to Mrs. Rogers and obtained considerable information about her domestic unhappiness which was turned over to Mrs. Dean to be turned into newspaper copy.

General Rogers backs up his charges with a number of affidavits from those concerned in the case, including one from Mrs. Dean in which she admitted having written the articles and that she obtained information in the case from General Hart.

General Hart is represented in the papers as being attentive to Mrs. Dean frequently dining in her apartment. Hart is unmarried. It is also alleged he furnished her with a maid for her apartment.

No decision has yet been made by the war department as to what will be done with General Rogers' charges. They are based on the 95th article of war, which contains the famous "blanket" charge of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Both Rogers and Hart have many friends in the service and sides are being taken by those who know of the proceedings.

Should General Hart be tried by a court martial, dismissal from the army would be the maximum penalty should he be found guilty.

General Rogers is now retired and living in Philadelphia, where he is in poor health.

Rogers was Pershing's quartermaster general in Mexico and in the A. E. F. He came into the army from civilian life in '98.

General Hart is a West Point Graduate and during the war commanded base section No. 1 at St. Nazaire, France. Both officers have D. S. M's.

FOUNDATION READY FOR OPEN PROBE TO START NEXT MONDAY

Committee Meets Behind
Closed Doors—Summon
Mitchell

Washington, Sept. 18.—Foundation for a searching probe of American aeronautics was laid today by the special air board.

Meeting for the first time in its permanent headquarters on Capitol Hill behind closed doors, the committee requested Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Acting Secretary of War Davis to hold departmental records in readiness for immediate inspection.

With their preliminary organization completed at the White House, where for seven hours yesterday they discussed various phases of the program committee members today perfect a program for launching next Monday into the colossal task of telling President Coolidge by November what, if anything, is wrong with American aviation.

After Monday the proceedings and preparations of the board will be open to the public.

Heads of the war and navy departments will be among the first witnesses. Secretary Wilbur and Acting Secretary of War Davis were both asked to appear during the first few days of the probe.

Colonel William Mitchell, central figure in the controversy, will be asked to personally appear before the board and substantiate his charges of incompetency and general inefficiency among leaders of the air services, early in the case.

Because of Mitchell's probable early appearance before the board, indications today pointed to the convening in Washington of the Military court which is to try him for insubordination, rather than San Antonio, Texas, his present station.

Secretary Davis is known to favor Washington over San Antonio and opinion in the war department today held that Mitchell's court martial should be held at a place where he could more readily give testimony before the air board when summoned.

Heavy artillery of both the army and navy is expected to be fired during the first few weeks of the investigation when departmental records and testimony of officials will occupy the center of the stage.

During the second phase of the investigation when younger airmen and technicians are summoned, Mitchell's friends believe their case will begin to take form.

Back of the storm of recrimination which has been pouring back and forth since the Shenandoah crash, which precipitated Mitchell's charges is the general belief in military circles that the army and navy themselves are in a fight for their very existence along present lines, along present lines.

Friends in congress of an unlimited air service are understood to be preparing a drive to cut army and navy appropriations to the bone, and spend the savings on aircraft. Realizing this condition, army and navy heads said they welcomed the investigation because they believe it will result in a vindication of present policies.

INDIAN RESENTMENT SMOLDERING OVER BAN OF COMMUNIST

Will Protest Action Of Kellogg Barring British
M. P.

London, Sept. 18.—Indian resentment against the United States for banning Shapurji Saklatvala, parsee communist member of the British House of Commons, is smoldering.

The Indian Association of Great Britain, will meet tonight to consider steps to be taken and means of protesting to the United States against the revocation of Saklatvala's visa.

The Indian association disapproves of the views held by Saklatvala but its members strongly object to the principle under which Saklatvala has been banned and regard it as an affront to Indians. The meeting will probably be a lively one, for it is expected that the government will use its influence to check any anti-American action which might have widespread results in India.

The communist party of Great Britain has called a meeting of protest to be held in Battersea, a hotbed of communism on Sunday night.

Saklatvala will speak to the meeting and it is expected that Secretary of State Kellogg and the United States will not be dealt with in any kindly fashion by the communist orators.

So persistent were the rumors that Great Britain instigated Secretary Kellogg's action that the British foreign office issued a formal and official denial.

"The foreign office had no connection with the action taken by Secretary Kellogg, nor did it send any instructions to any of its representatives inspiring the action," said the formal denial.

The denial has not succeeded in killing the rumors.

Bombay, Sept. 18.—Shapurji Saklatvala, communist M. P., who has been banned, from the United States did not resign his position with the London office of the firm of Tata Limited, cotton mill operators, according to Sir Dorabji Tata, senior partner.

Saklatvala is quoted as stating that he resigned his position because he felt that his views were not in harmony with the position he held.

Sir Dorabji Tata states that three months ago he gave instructions for the dismissal of Saklatvala if he persisted in his communistic activities.

NEXT WAR WILL BE RACE WAR BISHOP SAYS AT MEETING

Oriental Will End Civilization
Methodists Are Told.

Columbus, Sept. 18.—"The next war will be a race war and then God save the world—if He can," declared Bishop William F. McDowell, Washington, addressing the 114th annual Ohio Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, in session here today.

"Some day—and that day, perhaps not far distant—the millions of India, China and Japan—beside which we are only a handful—will become conscious of their power and will clash in a racial impact that may mean the end of civilization," Bishop McDowell continued.

"Unless the spirit and principles of Jesus is made to prevail in the lives of men, nations and races, civilization itself is in deadly peril. Support for the missionary movement is absolutely imperative."

Following a brief session of the conference this morning a joint meeting was held with members of the Ohio M. E. Conference Laymen's Association. This evening the annual "Father-and-Son" banquet will be held.

Speakers named on today's program included: Bishops McDowell; T. E. Henderson, Cincinnati and Thomas Nicholson; Dr. C. P. Franklin, president of Union College, Barbourville, Ky.; W. E. Graham, Detroit and Attorney James A. White, Columbus, former superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

THINK BOOTLEGGERS MAKING ATTEMPT TO POISON DRY AGENTS

Six Enforcement Men Suffering From Booze
Testing

Cleveland, Sept. 18.—Federal prohibition department officials here today say they would keep the "weather eye" on bootlegger believed to be handing dry officers poison liquor to sample on raids.

The department expressed the opinion that plots were afoot to kill dry agents with poison booze, after it had been made public that six agents of the Cleveland-Detroit district were suffering partial loss of sight and destroyed digestive organs as result of sampling liquor.

Agent J. W. Smith collapsed in the corridor of the federal building just after testifying in a case before United States Commissioner Monahan.

The department is seeking expert medical advice of how to guard the agents against the poison evil and have already made arrangements with the Marine hospital for regular examinations of all federal men and their treatment when poisoned.

The men have been advised to drink olive oil as a preventative.

The five other agents, victims of the poison liquor in the last few weeks are:

George Hopewell, Harry Snyder, W. E. McAdams, Detroit office; F. J. Kennedy, Detroit office and Julius Debokey, Akron.

JURY UPHOLDS WILL OF GEORGE BRANDT IN VERDICT FRIDAY

Jury in Common Pleas Court sustained the will of George Brandt, late Beaver Creek Township farmer, in leaving his estate valued at $25,000 to friends and neighbors in Xenia and Beaver Creek in rendering a verdict favoring the defense in the suit of Herman Volkenand and others against George E. Ferguson, as executor of the estate, and others made legatees by the last will, Friday morning.

The jury deliberated less than half an hour after receiving the case and rendered a unanimous vote for a verdict favoring the defense on the first ballot, it is said.

The trial, begun Tuesday, lasted more than three days.

Volkenand and others, a number of whom are residents of Germany, filed suit to set aside the Brandt will, and claiming they were rightful legatees, sought a share of the estate.

DRIVE AGAINST RIFFS A T AJDIR NEARING; RIFF NIGHT ATTACKS HARASS SPANISH

Seasonal Storms Hamper Franco-Spanish Flotilla—
Counter Offensive Progressing Slowly Is Report
From Madrid.

Paris, Sept. 18.—With General Primo De Rivera, enroute from Tetuan to Alhucemas bay, indicating that the prospective drive against Ajdir is not far off, the disembarked Spanish troops on Alhucemas bay are having trouble holding their positions according to word received today from Melilla, Morocco.

The Riffs are taking advantage of darkness to harass the Spanish in nightly attacks. These attacks cease promptly with the first gleam of dawn, as the tribesmen want to keep their artillery positions secret.

The seasonal storms, the "leviant" winds which visit the African coast in early fall, are seriously hampering efforts of the Franco-Spanish flotilla to keep the disembarked troops in provisions. No advance would be possible until further supplies are landed.

A violent counter attack launched by the Riffs against Morro Nuevo, one of the Spanish positions on the bay, was beaten off only after three hours of fighting. The tribesmen used artillery, machine guns and grenades in the attack.

The rumors among troops embarked from southern Spain for Morocco continued to grow today. A garibolano regiment composed largely of basques not in sympathy with the war, was said to have joined the movement at Malaga, according to a dispatch from Gibraltar. Many of the mutineers are held for court martial, the report said.

Madrid, Sept. 18.—The Spanish counter offensive in the Regata sector of the western front, near the Tangier international zone, was making progress slowly and cautiously, according to a directory communique published today, after a lengthy meeting.

Members of the directory were in communication with Morocco by telephone during the meeting.

"Our situation is favorable but unchanged," the communique stated. "The Spanish counter offensive in

A mistake in signals was given as the cause of the smashup.

The merchandise train of ten cars was signalled to leave a siding and was traveling through the tunnel at a high rate of speed when it crashed into the coal train, also traveling rapidly.

The tunnel, a quarter of a mile in length, was badly wrecked. Many cars of debris are piled up and railroad officials say that it will require a week to clear it.

Both locomotives were badly battered by the impact. Many merchandise cars were crushed and their contents littered the tunnel.

CRITICIZE MELLON FOR DRY DIRECTION

Washington, Sept. 18.—Frank criticism of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's direction of prohibition enforcement, was voiced today in the first session of the federal council of churches survey of national prohibition.

Mellon, the report stated, has never been a prohibitionist and has not directed this part of his department with the vigor that has characterized his direction of other bureaus under him.

Former administrations also came in for criticism in the report.

President Wilson, it stated was not a prohibitionist and was "unable" to give enforcement the attention it deserved, while President Harding's attitude was lax.

Under the new regime and reorganization of General Lincoln C. Andrews, the council, however, saw a marked improvement and the basis for a sincere attempt at enforcement.

"I wish they would hurry up with the trial," he pointed today. "I am getting tired sitting around jail here with nothing to do."

"No, they won't hang me. I'm too young."

According to the story told by Tracy's sister and younger brother, Tracy shot his mother when she threatened to have his dad punish him for being naughty. They are prepared to relate the story to the grand jury as chief witnesses against their brother.

Hatfield claims to hold an interest in the premises, according to the petition. The plaintiff asks that this interest be set up and Hatfield's title quieted. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

THIRD DAYTON MAN HELD IN SEQUEL TO PARTY AT KIL KARE

Harry Minich, Dayton garage owner, waived preliminary examination when arraigned before R. O. Copey, justice of the peace, Thursday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond. Attorney Marcus Shoup, counsel for Minich, signed bond.

Minich is the third Dayton man to be arrested in connection with an alleged "hoose party" held at Kil Kare Park Saturday, September 5. He was served with the warrant in Dayton.

Three arrests have followed the liquor episode at Kil Kare Park in which between twenty-five and thirty men and women are alleged to have participated.

John P. Naas, Dayton attorney, and L. E. Mudd, Dayton furniture dealer, are each held to the grand jury under bond. Naas is charged with carrying concealed weapons and Mudd with assault.

Chief Deputy Sheriff John Baughman and Deputy Marshall Albert Jolly, of Osborn, were instrumental in breaking up the party and obtaining the arrests of several of the alleged participants.

The officers alleged they discovered a quantity of whiskey when they walked into the pavilion of the park. Considerable shooting was done and although no one was injured, arrests at that time were made impossible by the confusion.

Minich is alleged to have pointed a revolver at Constable Jolly.

Affidavits were filed which have led to the arrest of three men. Several other warrants are sworn out and more arrests may follow, it is believed.

DEAN NASH SPEAKER AT D. A. R. MEETING

Stressing the importance of the ideals laid down by the forefathers, the signers of the constitution, Dean Philip C. Nash, of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, spoke before Catherine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in observance of "Constitution Day" at the home of Mrs. Rose Shaffer, West Third Street, Thursday afternoon.

"Constitution Day" is celebrated each year by the D. A. R. society and the meeting Thursday was particularly of interest to the members since it was the first of the year. A large representation of members attended the meeting, marking the 133th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

Dean Nash made a plea for the freedom of the press, speech and religion, as first outlined in the Constitution of the United States. He laid emphasis on the importance of tolerance of other people's views and ideas in the pursuit of happiness.

The speaker brought out the thought that Divine guidance was invoked in the drawing up of the Constitution, since, after five weeks of effort, its signers had reached no decision until prayer was pronounced on the assembly. Prayer was suggested to the chairman, George Washington, by Benjamin Franklin, and later when the Constitution script was read it met with approval of its signers.

Mrs. Shaffer, assisted by Miss Louise Shaffer, Mrs. A. S. Frazer and Mrs. Jacob Baldwin, served a dainty refreshment course after Dean Nash's talk.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Considers The Subject Of Hats

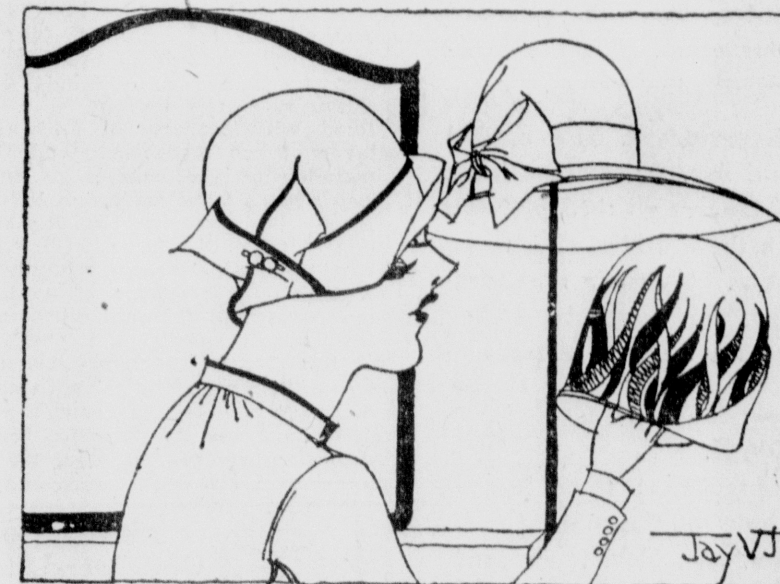

By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi is starting out to buy a few fall hats—in her nonchalant manner—and to put herself in the proper frame of mind she is wearing one of the smartest of the season's simple affairs to shop in.

The little hat with the brim that rolls up in front is of felt combined with velvet. The larger tailored affair is of felt combined with hatter's plush. The little hat in the first sketch is of plush or felt or velvet.

And that tells the story of fall. This season velvet and hatters plush as felt and they can't possibly be they are when combined. Above is plique and a large hat of felt and felt. In the corner is a suede chap-hats. Not only felt is fashionable, and velvet and silk are all as smart more fashionable separately than a tiny hat with modish futurist appeal. Mitzi wears an off-the-face eau with an envelope purse to match.

I WONDER WHAT "BIG MONEY" MEANS—MAYBE I CAN EARN ENOUGH TO LIVE ON AND STILL SAVE A LITTLE TO PAY OFF MY DEBT TO CARLOS—I'D SLAVE THE REST OF MY LIFE FOR THE SATISFACTION OF THROWING HIS HATEFUL MONEY IN HIS FACE AND SAY GOOD-BYE FOREVER TO HIM—

THANKFULNESS FOR AMERICA.

News from Europe nowadays is full of uncertainty. The threat of war is over on the horizon. Millions of people are oppressed with heavy tax burdens and the general frustration of industry.

The American people ought to feel profoundly grateful that we are not suffering from such conditions. We have our troubles, but they are relatively light. Our tax burdens are far below what they have to bear. Our load of debt is small relative to our national wealth, as compared with the amount of debt they are carrying across the sea.

We are getting today the fruitage of the courage, the sacrifice of the ancestors and pioneers who established our country and its institutions, and who performed the tremendous physical task of building and equipping the new country.

They toiled and sweated, they fought the savages and they ploughed the fields and cut down the forest and constructed roads and built railroads, and created a wonderful civilization, and we get the benefit. And many of us kick now because we have to work, half as long as they did.

The original settlers were bright enough to see that conditions over in Europe were too crowded, and that they could make a better country if they would start in a new land. It took a great deal of courage and the spirit of adventure, and involved harder work than if they had remained in their native lands. But they had the resolution to do it, and we benefit.

Our hearts ought to be overflowing with thankfulness. We should remember the words of Scripture, "To whom much is given, of him shall much be required," and we should contribute generously of time and money to make it a good country, and to assist peoples and lands that are not so fortunate.

REVIVING THE OLD DANCES.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY FORD are interested in the idea of reviving the older dances and are holding parties in which these figures are featured. Mr. Ford has been able to accomplish the most amazing wonders in the mechanical world, but he may find that controlling the fancies of the dancing crowd is a more difficult proposition.

Styles of dancing seem to follow in cycles something like the styles of clothing, and it is often as difficult to assign a reason for such changes as to tell why we wear such different looking garments from those of a previous generation. It made a stir in the social world 30 years ago when round dances displaced the old square figures, but you could not stop the trend of the times. Today the dancing crowd is as difficult to sway.

The dancing teachers often suggest that this or that method of dancing would be more refined and appropriate, but they often find it difficult to enforce their views.

One characteristic of the modern dances is their tendency to change constantly, so that people must keep attending classes in order to keep up with the new steps. In former years, when once you had learned to dance the standard figures, it did not take so much instruction. But the dancing crowd find pleasures in showing off new stunts.

The modern dances when well performed have a kind of a zip and pep, as the boys would say, that makes them very fascinating. Yet many of the dancers go through with them in a roughhouse way in which the old idea of dancing as the poetry of motion is all left out. If people are interested in dancing as a beautiful art, and some day they will return to that idea, they will revive many of the graceful old figures.

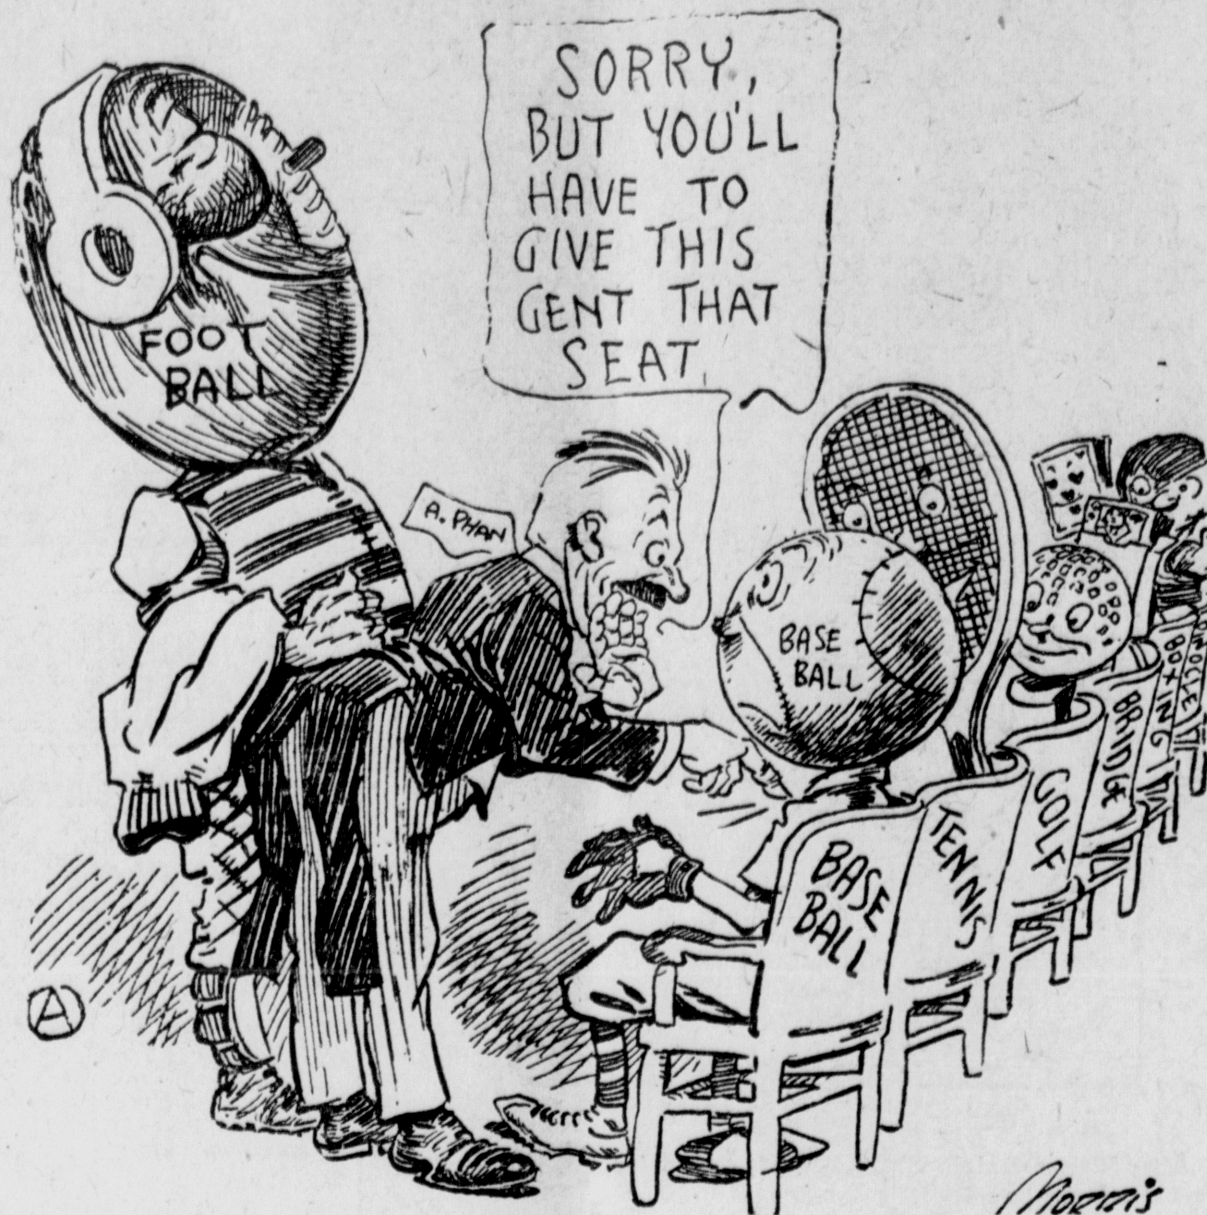

THE IDEAL TOWN.

SAYS the American City: "A conservative town learns from the past. A live town thinks of the present. A progressive town plans for the future. An ideal town does all three."

We all know plenty of towns that pride themselves on the things they have done in past years, but it is almost impossible to wake them up to attend to their present needs. Also we know towns that are full of enterprise, but they have no standards of past achievement to guide them, so that they are growing up in a raw and unattractive way. And we know towns that are going ahead in a business way, but they are not planning properly for the needs of their population a few years hence. They do not comprehend the spirit of modern movements and do not take progressive steps in accordance with the latest enlightenment.

To make a town an ideal one, its residents have got to be keenly interested in social progress and modern ideas.

MORE RECIPES FOR "ICE BOX CAKE"

The following recipes were sent from Reader Friends in response to a request recently inserted in the column by another for this kind of cake.

"Macaroon Ice Box Cake: Melt a half-pound cake of sweet chocolate over hot water; remove pan from fire and stir in the yolks of four eggs, then cool. Fold in the stiffly-beaten egg-whites and spread half of this mixture in the bottom of a mould lined with macaroons. Add another layer of the chocolate mixture. Top with a final macaroon layer and place in your ice box for several hours, to chill. Serve with one-half pint of double cream whipped stiff with four tablespoons of confectioners sugar and flavored with one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Mrs. C. C. B."

"Rich Mocha Ice Box Cake: Cream one-half pound of butter with one cup of powdered sugar, then add the yolks of six eggs to this mixture together with five squares of chocolate melted, and one teaspoon of cold made coffee. Fold in six stiffly-whipped egg whites and spread on a layer of split ladyfingers with which you have lined a mould (it is also well to line the mould with waxed paper). Add a top layer of the ladyfingers, pressing them well into the chocolate filling. Chill in your ice box. Not necessary to serve with whipped cream. It is good just as it is. No Name."

"Lemon-Flavor Ice Box Cake: Cream together one cup of granulated sugar and one-half pound of sweet butter. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs and the grated rind and juice of one large lemon. Place a layer of split ladyfingers in a pan, spread with half the amount of filling, add another ladyfinger, and the remainder of the filling. Place in your ice box 24 hours and serve with sweet rich cream. Three dozen ladyfingers are needed for this recipe. Reader."

"Gelatine Ice Box Cake: Beat the yolks of four eggs with one cup of granulated sugar, then add the juice and grated rind of one lemon. Soak one envelope of granulated gelatine be shapely!

"I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want those hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure."

Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?

And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough to just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?

Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells by the millions.

You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood.

S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

in one-fourth cup of cold water for several minutes, then dissolve it in three-quarters of a cup of warm water, stirring well. Add this dissolved gelatine to the flavored egg-sugar mixture. Break in three-eighths of a pound of pecan or other nut-meats, and fold in one pint of whipped cream and the four egg-whites beaten stiff. Stir all into a mould lined with ladyfingers and merely crumble a few extra ladyfingers over the top. Place in your ice box overnight, before serving. J. H."

Today's Talks

THE LITTLE DEFECTS
The two greatest teachers in this world are your two little eyes.

But like all teachers, they can only call your attention to important things. It is your job to think, interpret and apply.

These eyes see all things where they are alert. And then the mind takes up its work and carries on. Like a court of last resort this mind sifts, smooths out and furnishes a philosophy for the life which owns it.

This mind studies the acts of men that have become history, wonders at the beauties and mysteries of nature and takes walks all by itself down many a deserted lane and finds solace in newly discovered things.

But if this mind grow, enlarge, and become very rich in love and lore, it must bear in mind that this body to which it belongs is very frail and that its nervous impulses are apt of times to dictate to this mind and lead it into false ways.

So often the little defects of character and the little defects in the things that are material, gain attention that draws the mind away from the bigger things of life.

The little defects bring on worry and cast a cloud before that which is most important of all.

I drove my car into the country the other day and at night drew it under a tree. In the morning I noticed hundreds of small specks caused by the droppings of pitch from the great pines all about. They didn't matter much, but in my desire to get rid of them I polished the finish & self from the car. Then I no longer saw the little defects but the greater damage caused by my efforts to remove them.

I thought of how many times people tried to remove the little defects from their friends only to bring about chasm in that friendship that were far more serious than any small defect.

We can overlook much if our great desire is to help, inspire and build.

Just Folks

BY EDWARD A. GUEST

YES, MY DEAR
For honor I'll defy the strong,
For principle I stand;
I'll dare to fight against a wrong
With all that I command.
In argument I'll talk or write
'Gainst notions false or queer,
But when the wife says black is white
I answer: "Yes, my dear!"

It matters not that I am sure
That black is black as ink,
Long would the argument endure
Dare I aloud to think;
Had I learned a woman's way

Through many a wedded year
To all that Nellie's pleased to say
I answer: "Yes, my dear!"

I go where I am told to go,
I stay when told to stay,
Let fools employ the stormier: "No!"
I choose the easier way.
I've learned protesting much is vain,
A shorter course I steer,
When Nell makes her position plain,
I answer: "Yes, my dear!"

Much danger for a man and wife
In dispute lies
"No" is a word that's fraught with strife

While "yes" is always wise,
With men I'll argue through the night,
Till every doubt grows clear,
But when my wife says black is white
I answer: "Yes, my dear!"

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

By GERTRUDE S. de WENTWORTH-JAMES

CHAPTER I

The purple haze of a summer's morning lay upon the distant hills. The rising sun gilded the roof of John Mannering's beautiful home and its rays scintillated against the window panes with the leaping flames of many fires. They set the dew wet grass on the close mown lawn to glittering like a vast tray filled with myriads of gems and gave warm caresses to the moist blooms in the rose garden. They aroused a robin to a joyous outburst of melody and peeping amidst the trellised vines which framed a window, they sifted on into a room to paint its polished floor with great splashes of gold.

Not content with this, a very rake of a ray crept boldly up on a bed and falling full upon a pillow kissed the soft cheek of a woman lying there. Before she wakened a salute, she moved uneasily. Opening her eyes, she gazed about her drowsily until finally, fully awakened, she reached for the clock at her side. But quickly Eileen Mannering set the time piece aside as a remembrance brought a glow of happiness to her face. A day among days had dawned. It was her son's twenty-first birthday.

She sat up, her mind overflowing with tender memories as it traveled back through the years since she had cradled Bob as an infant in her arms. Happy years had they been, for Bob had been all that a son should be. And now he was a man, a clean, splendid young fellow, the very thought of whom thrilled her heart with pride. Her eyes were misty with mother love as, leaving the past, her thoughts leaped on to dwell upon the mysterious way of the future. Fear found no place in her life. To fit, she must surely have given lip, had it not been for the sleeping man behind her.

Yet, for all her care, John Mannering awakened. With a yawn he marked her empty bed and harkened to the muffled rush of water within the bath room. Aware that she would soon return, there came a change in him. An official of dignity and consequence, there was still a bit of a boy about John. As the bath room door reopened, he deliberately snuggled down in his pillows and closed his eyes.

Reappearing, Eileen crossed the beautifully furnished room to pause unsuspectingly by his bed side and to hesitate in gentle sweetness as if still loath to disturb him.

"John," she said finally. "John." Then she stooped and kissed him. A kiss from Eileen Mannering? Surely it would be impossible for a man to have lost in slumber as to fall to heed such a sweet summons? But John Mannering never moved. Indeed, he essayed a snore.

A mistake, John—a fatal mistake. It was a sorry imitation, lacking verity and failing to carry conviction even to so confiding a soul as hers. Her suspicions were promptly aroused.

What was more, a woman of action, she cast aside the bed clothes and as an eagle swoops down on its prey was upon him, tickling his ribs, until he giggled, squirmed and laughed helplessly under her attack.

Beware Eileen, be content with your triumph. Over-confidence has brought disaster at the instant of victory.

Ah,—it is over with the quick

HER EYES RESTED GENTLY UPON THE RECUMBENT FIGURE

ner heart. Bob had been a wonderful boy and would be a wonderful man. To what high pinnacle might he aspire, what marvels accomplish?

Aroused from her dreams, Eileen reached for her negligee. But as she slipped it on, her eyes rested gently upon the recumbent figure of the man in the twin bed beside her own. To the world, John Mannering was the District Attorney of Fayette County and reckoned one of the big lawyers of the state, but to her, he was just her other boy—her pal,—tried and true. Not always had life been as rosy to Eileen and John Mannering as it seemed this morning. There had been difficult years when John unknown and unappreciated was struggling to get a start in his profession. Money was scarce in those days, but they had met and conquered their problems, buoyed up by a richness of faith and love. Best of all, as John had climbed, winning by his outstanding ability and inflexible integrity of purpose ever greater honor and success in his profession, that had remained.

Another glance at the clock and hesitation. John worked so hard and now he was sleeping so soundly. It seemed a shame to disturb him an instant sooner than was necessary. Sliding cautiously from the bed, she tiptoed quietly into the bath room, beyond. Behind a carefully closed door, she turned on the water and laid out fresh undergarments for her John. That was Eileen. Today, with an efficient staff of servants at her beck and call, she still saw to the more intimate details of John's personal comfort and well being with a devotion which only love can give. And marvelously happy was Eileen at the task this morning. A paean of thanksgiving and joy welled up within her heart, for her boy, her husband and the rich fullness of ness of a flash. Her traller figure, caught within his strong arms, is drawn down to his side a prisoner of war and made to suffer the added ignominy of a tousled head.

But even in the administration of condign punishment his touch was but a caress, his threats but empty boasts.

"Come on,—want to try it again?" he dared her when she had finally escaped his grasp to sit a breathless figure at the other end of the bed.

She received the invitation with silent scorn.

"Afraid?"
"Of you,—certainly not. But why trouble when I have gained my point. You are awake, you were never more wide awake in your life. Now, get up."

He cast a careless glance at the clock and again gave his attention to her, affection written plain upon his face.

"The prettiest bride that ever came out of Kentucky," he proclaimed.

The color that played over her face was not entirely due to her recent strenuous exercise. He was always so outspoken in his admiration of her.

"Oh John,—and Kentucky is noted for its beautiful women."

"Having picked, its loveliest specimen for my own, I would be the last to deny the old state's claims in that respect."

She smiled, happy in the fact that despite the long years of their married life her husband was still her lover.

"You are blind, dear. Luckily for me, love has blinded your eyes."

"Blind nothing," he declared stoutly. "I maintain that I'm as good a judge of a fine looking woman today as I ever was."

GEE, FROSH, THESE GUYS ARE O. K. HAZING TABOO AT ANTIOCH AFTER IMPROVEMENTS

Sophomores of Antioch College have introduced what is believed to be a precedent at the college in the attitude to be adopted toward freshmen by the upper classmen.

The new idea of abolishing "hazing" and "not to do something to the freshmen but to do something for the freshmen," was introduced by the sophomore class at a banquet Thursday night in which the freshmen were guests, the sophomores hosts and the upper classmen waiters.

A welcome to the new class was extended by Reid Boyle, president of the sophomore class, in which he told the freshmen: "We want you to feel at ease here. We do not want you to display an antagonistic attitude toward upper classmen. I hope this banquet may become an Antioch precedent."

Burton H. Johnson, a sophomore from Memphis, Tenn., conceived the idea of friendly relations between the freshmen and sophomores.

The sophomores had agreed last spring to refrain from any form of "hazing" for two weeks this fall.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH WILL BE RE-OPENED TABOO AT ANTIOCH AFTER IMPROVEMENTS

Special re-dedication service, celebrating the opening of the First M. E. Church, after a number of improvements have been completed, will be held Sunday, it is announced by the pastor, Dr. F. W. Stanton.

Improvements in the auditorium, made by the Ladies Aid Society and the official board, include a new choir loft, which the choir will occupy in the special reopening services. Special music will be one of the features of all services that day.

Dr. Stanton announces the public is cordially invited to unite in the services and enjoy the improvements on the church. Trinity M. E. Church will join with the First Church in the evening service and Dr. V. F. Brown will deliver the sermon. Dr. Stanton will occupy the pulpit at the special morning service.

R. A. Stillings, Dayton, has been re-employed by the First Church to direct the music of the church for the coming year.

WEEK OF OCTOBER 4 SET ASIDE AS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

By proclamations of President Coolidge and Governor Donahey, the week of October 4 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week, according to word received by Fire Chief T. B. Claire from Lewis F. Miller, state fire marshal.

Miller asks that all civic and service organizations in Ohio devote as much time and attention to cause and prevention of fires as possible during the week.

Fire Chief Claire has not made plans for the local observance but is hoping to obtain the services of a speaker from Columbus.

Chief Claire says "we frequently fail to realize the danger of a condition of fire hazard that has long existed without serious results."

The number of home fires in Ohio last year was more than 3,000 and more than eighty-five percent were inexcusably caused by carelessness or neglect, it is said.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

Paris—Donkey's Back has nothing to do with the little animal when it comes to the French cuisine but is a delicious something to help keep the cookie-jar from showing bottom.

Crush four-fifths pound of almonds and mix with the same amount of powdered sugar, a little vanilla, two whole eggs, the beaten whites of five eggs and two spoonfuls of flour. Roll this into a thin crust and line a buttered pan.

Bake in a moderate oven and cut into squares of six inches. Detach from the pan and turn into little cornettes.

When cool rub with the white of an egg and sprinkle over chopped pistachios.

British M. P. Here to Preach Revolt

Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist member of British parliament, wants the purpose of his trip to the U. S. to be clearly understood. "My visit is as an implacable enemy of the Union Jack and British imperialism," he is quoted. "I am out to work for revolution and the day when workers will control the whole world."

NEW SERIAL STORY
IS STARTED TODAY
IN THIS NEWSPAPER

The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican take pride in offering to readers today the first installment of the new serial story, "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted", by Gertrude S. de Wentworth-James.

The story is a particularly human piece of fiction, based on a mother's love and sacrifice, revolving around a startling dramatic situation and presenting interestingly a particularly complex problem of modern life.

The story has been adapted for the screen and made into a motion picture that has won the acclaim of critics as a well done piece of screen photography. Well known stars take the parts of characters in the story and perhaps screen fans will soon have the opportunity to compare the story with the picture.

Gertrude S. de Wentworth-James has contributed several stories to the screen and "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted" is said to climax her writing success. The story begins a new era in the presentation of serial stories to readers of this paper.

Readers will be pleased with the generous installments run daily. Almost two columns of fiction will take the place of the brief insertions given other stories and the entire novel will be completed in thirty-two installments or a little more than five weeks of publication days.

Longer installments give the readers better opportunity to follow the sequence, it is believed, and appreciation of the new form is anticipated. These papers announce that "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted" will be followed by other popular novels prepared in newspaper form. Read the first installment today on page five.

BRAND'S EXTRA PAY
MAY PAY FOR STONE
CRUSHER FOR COUNTY

Congressman Charles Brand, U. S. House of Representatives, has announced he will offer each county in this district at least $500 from his salary toward the purchase of a stone crusher, the money being the increase in his salary voted by congress which the local congress man has refused to accept.

Congressman Brand declares that counties in this district are absorbing his increase in salary as fast as it accumulates and that Clark and Union Counties have already purchased the crushers.

A similar sum is to be offered the Madison County Board of Commissioners for the purchase of a stone crushing outfit for the benefit of roads of that county.

No such offer has been received by Greene County Commissioners but is expected to be made soon. Whether the local Commissioners will agree to furnish the additional money to purchase the crusher and take advantage of the coming offer is problematical.

POSSESSED STILL AND BOOZE IS SAID

Harry Angel, of near Selma, was arrested Thursday following a raid on his home conducted by Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy Sheriff George Spencer in which the officers claim they found a large still, three barrels of mash and two gallons of whiskey. The liquor was confiscated.

Angel is in the County Jail awaiting arraignment Friday or Saturday in Probate Court on a charge of possessing liquor.

Angel was not at home when the officers made the raid but was arrested later.

Miss Allen was curling her hair and suddenly turned her head, the hot point piercing the optic. The eye was seriously burned and was treated at the offices of Drs. Madden and Shields. The physicians are making every effort to save the eye sight.

Sayre & Hemphill Druggists

Why Publishers Grow Rich!

When druggists like us use space advertising a safety razor, knowing darn well that everyone has one, we can't help but grow rich. This is in spite of the fact that for 35c you can get a whole pack of Christy Razor Blades and a RAZOR THROWN IN! Free for nuthin!

Jake and Eddie Sayre Tamper with New Invention!

This new invention, which takes pictures and is becoming generally known as a KODAK (from the two Eskimo words "Ko," meaning hot and "Dak," meaning stuff—hot stuff), has caused a great deal of perspiration to break out on both Jake and Eddie. Mister Chew refuses to allow more to be said HERE. Ask Jake. (We have one of these kodaks for sale—also the celluloid rolls that accompany it.)

Beyond Us!

Why anyone with one freckle or a hundred wants to get rid of it or them is not understandable at all! Yet many do! So for $1.00 we will give you what is called FLYTE which allows you to tune out from them.

Your Third Sets of Teeth!

Why not save the SECOND set—we ASK you! It takes time and thought and energy to grow teeth—especially the third set, but if you use DAILY this Milk of Magnesia Tooth Paste, you'll get along real keen on set No. Two. 19c and 39c.

What If we'd all quit!

A man who should have known better made the statement to me the other day that the world was plenty better off when there wasn't so much civilization. 'He said: 'There's too darn many stores of all kinds. Too many people selling things that people never know they need until some feller made it and then after he made it, naturally he HAD to sell it to someone.'

"And I took a couple of thinks to myself and had a good laf' at the whole idea. Naturally I applied his chatter to the DRUG BUSINESS, being a druggist as you know, and I was laffing at the thought of "what if ALL drug stores quit!" QUIT TODAY!

In the first place, where would folks take minor ailments for comfort and solace? Where would SHE meet HIM? Where could you "call up home" at odd hours? What would become of your complexion, your hair, your eyelashes, teeth, beard, fingernails and corns? "Where would you step in case of rain and in case your appetite shapens up "between meals" where's that nut sundae coming from? In six months without drug stores we'd sure be an odd looking set of folks. Yes?

"Nope, I don't think we're going to ALL quit very SOON! We keep open longer hours than most other businesses, we're of greater convenience to the general public than most others and most everything we sell is sold to folks highly civilized who sure would kick up much fuss if they found us shut up!"

In what PARTICULAR way would YOU miss drug stores?
DOC. SAYRE

Outside of the $1,000 a week I get from DOC for being his Press Agent, I certainly don't give a pair of hoots whether all the druggists quit or not!

I see no good reason, however, why druggists shouldn't have the right to "strike" same as any other kinda people. Only fault I find in MOST of them is they're just like Doc. —seem to think the world outta business.

Splendid "Growing Weather" For Bugs!

Many folks are experiencing trouble this year in harvesting the enormous crop of mosquitos, ants, flies and whatnots, which a generous season has given us. Marvelous stories of "big yields come to us daily of those who use Flytox, Black Flag and Scederscot instead of the old-fashioned flail or fly-swatter. 50c-75c and $1.25.
